Prescott's Scout Drive Thursday; No Report From Hope

Blake Scott Says Prescott Canvass for $300 Will Run 2 Days

HOPE AT HALF WAY

This City Believed on Last Lap of Campaign to Raise $600

The campaign here to raise $600 to maintain paid scout workers continued Wednesday but up to 3 p. m. there had been no report made by the canvassing committee.

The drive opened Tuesday and at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon $175 had been raised. The star will tabulate donations in Thursday's issue of the newspaper. Half of Hope's goal was believed raised Wednesday.

Blake Scott, chairman of the Prescott troop committee, told The Star over telephone Wednesday afternoon that the drive for funds there had been delayed.

The campaign to raise $300 at Prescott will open Thursday morning and is expected to be finished late Friday.

"We have laid the ground work and we anticipate no trouble in raising our quota of funds to maintain paid scout workers at Prescott," Mr. Scott declared.

Farm-Debt Based Currency Debated

Democratic Leaders Predict Defeat of Frazier-Lemke Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Speaker Byrnes took the floor in the house Wednesday in the fight over the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill to read a letter from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, opposing passage of the 3-billion-dollar measure.

Defeat Predicted
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Beginning what may be its final major scrap of the session, the house heard shouted arguments Tuesday that the Frazier-Lemke farm-debt refinancing bill was not inflationary, and counter assertions that it was "unjust" and "iniquitous."

The house moved well into the six hours of general debate on the measure, which would authorize issuance of $3,000,000,000 in new currency. The steering committee backing it converged Tuesday night to plan strategy for jamming it through to final passage. Democratic leaders still predicted they would fail.

Representative Lemke (Rep., N. D.) opened the debate with an assertion that the bill "is not inflation unless every Federal Reserve bank note issued is inflation."

A group of farmers in the gallery broke house rules to applaud as he took the floor.

He said the currency provided by the measure would be secured by first mortgages on farms, which he called

Edward A. O'Neal and Cully Cobb to Speak Here 20th

Farm Bureau Head and AAA Cotton Chief to Be Hope Guests

RALLY IS PREPARED
Experiment Station Makes Arrangements for Crowd of 5,000

Edward A. O'Neal, for four years president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Cully A. Cobb, director, southern region, Agricultural Adjustment Administration, will be the principal speakers at a mass meeting to be held at the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station Wednesday, May 20.

The meeting is sponsored by the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation. Arrangements are being made to handle a crowd of 5,000.

Dan T. Gray, dean and director, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, and J. F. Tompkins, president of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, will also appear on the day's program—which begins at 10 a. m.

Mr. O'Neal has had much to do with the enactment of helpful agricultural legislation. He is thoroughly conversant with all phases of the farm problem, and is a gifted speaker. He is a native of Alabama, a cotton planter, and a Master Farmer. Mr. O'Neal will discuss the value of sound organization to the farmers of the state, and will describe how necessary it is for farmers to stand united in meeting national farm problems.

Former Farm Editor
Mr. Cobb is a familiar figure to Arkansas farmers. He was well known to them first as editor of the Southern Ruralist and as associate editor of the Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, prior to his appointment as chief of the cotton section, AAA. Mr. Cobb is a native of Mississippi, where as a school teacher he took an active part in establishing the teaching of agriculture in high schools. He has long been a popular speaker at Arkansas farm meetings, having appeared on Farmers' Week programs at Fayetteville and at the visiting days of the Main and Branch Experiment Stations of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. Mr. Cobb will discuss the part which farm organizations may play in the future of the soil conservation program.

The need for farm organization in Arkansas will be discussed by Dean Gray, an active leader in Arkansas agricultural affairs since he first became dean of the college in 1923. As dean and director, he is in charge of the teaching, experiment stations, and Extension Service activities of the college. Dean Gray returned last year from a 12-month leave of absence to direct the program of the Land Policy Section, AAA, in this region, including the states of Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, and Mississippi. A native of Missouri, he came to the college of Agriculture from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, where he was dean and director of the College of Agriculture.

State President
The work of the Farm Bureau in Arkansas will be related by J. F. Tompkins, president of the State Federation since it was first organized. Mr. Tompkins is a native of Alabama. When he first came to Arkansas he was manager of the Three-State Lumber company, and is now a large cotton planter.

The meeting here is to be one of four meetings to be held the same week by the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation. The other meetings will be held at Clarksville on May 19, Pine Bluff on May 21, and at Newport on May 22.

Farm Bureaus are now organized in 70 counties of the state, and these mass meetings, each of them expected to attract more than 5,000 farmers, are part of a membership drive expected to bring total enrollment in the state up to 10,000 by July 1, according to Waldo Frasier, executive secretary of the State Federation.

Model Rural Life for Workers of City Is Aim of RA Suburban Community Plan

Four "Greenbelt" Projects Ideal, and Yet Are Practical

Projects Located in Maryland, New Jersey, Ohio and Wisconsin

RELIEF FOR SLUMS

Roosevelt Program Previously Recommended by Hoover and Others

Scores of projects along widely diversified lines, to improve living conditions of thousands of urban and rural dwellers, are included in the program of the Resettlement Administration, largely a mystery to the public. What is planned and what is being done is told by Rodney Dutcher, NEA Washington correspondent, in a series of five articles, of which this is the fourth.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent
(Copyright, 1936, by NEA Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—Most spectacular of all activities of the ambitious Resettlement Administration is its program for "greenbelt" suburban resettlement communities.

There it would re-house thousands of city families in rural surroundings at low cost and under conditions more idealistic than any ever before planned on such a mass scale in this country.

Whether or not you concede that the federal government has any business demonstrating the feasibility of such projects while carrying out its work relief program, you can't help admit they're interesting.

These communities, government experts say, probably represent the best and most carefully planned development of land for homes ever begun, taking into account the assurance that they will be permanently protected from encroachments.

Four of them will be developed in the present program: Greenbelt, at Berwyn, Md., near Washington; Greenbrook, at Boundbrook, N. J.; Greendale, at Milwaukee; and Greendale, at Milwaukee.

Allocation of $31,000,000 from the work relief fund has been made for these developments. Greenbelt and Greendale will each provide homes for 10,000 families; Greenbrook and Greendale for 750 apiece.

Work Well Started

Construction is speeding along at Berwyn, where nearly 2,500 men—mostly WPA workers—are engaged and where government workers will live. It has barely begun at Cincinnati and Milwaukee and the Boundbrook project is temporarily tied up by litigation.

Situated near industrial cities, these communities are being built on raw land within commuting distance of factories and office buildings, with the aim of putting every acre to maximum economic use.

They are planned for families in the $1200 to $1500 range and it is hoped that the houses can be made available at about $6 a month a room. The objectives are good housing and a healthy environment at minimum cost for families which now can afford only sub-standard homes.

New homes are beyond the reach of about 70 per cent of city families and Administrator Rexford G. Tugwell says that if the philosophy of these communities is right, and their plans well drawn, they are bound to affect the architects and builders who must erect millions of American homes in the next few years.

Idea Approved by Experts
In general, the idea has been recommended by many bodies of experts, including committees of Herbert Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership in 1931. Relief of slum congestion is a primary objective. Suburban land can be bought much cheaper than slum real estate and wide tracts it offers for better opportunity for scientific planning.

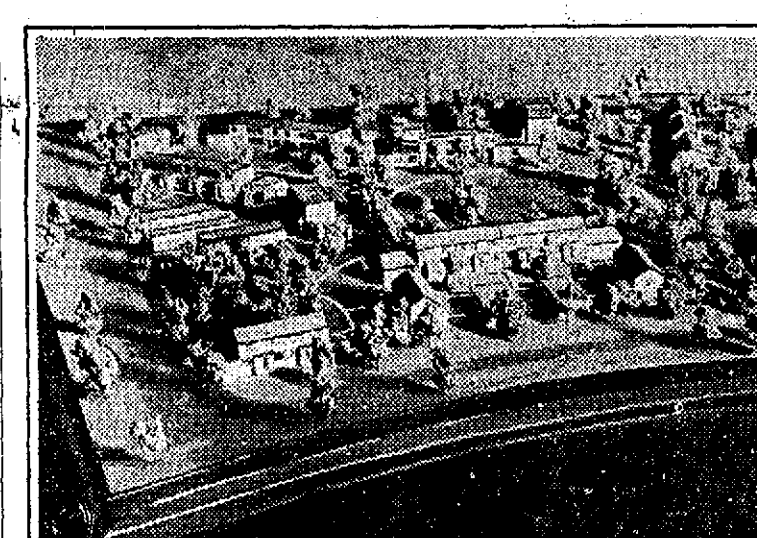

The "greenbelt" is a protective area of farming and forest land, perhaps half a mile wide, which surrounds the community. Farmers operating there will sell their produce inside the belt to the community dwellers, and there will be garden plots available for those among the latter who want to raise their own vegetables.

Farmers and city workers will share

One of the "greenbelt" suburban communities which RA hopes to make an ideal home center for city workers, with model rural conditions, is this town of Berwyn, Md., near Washington, as seen from the blimp Enterprise, on which Administrator Tugwell made an inspection trip. Construction work is well advanced.

A group of the model houses in the Berwyn community is shown in the upper photo. Below is a drawing showing the entire community, with surrounding countryside. Planning and construction of this project has given work to hundreds.

Ruth Garland Dies, Funeral Thursday

Services to Held at Hope First Baptist Church at 2 o'Clock

Miss Ruth Garland of Hope, faculty member of Carlisle High School the past two years, died at 7 p. m. Tuesday in a Little Rock hospital. She had been ill 10 days.

Miss Garland was formerly a teacher in the Blewins High School, going to Carlisle two years ago.

The body was returned to the home of a brother, Lee Garland, on the Hope-Blewins highway. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday from First Baptist church, with burial in Rose Hill cemetery.

Burial services will be students of Carlisle High School.

Miss Garland is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Bernard Clore of Waveland, Ind.; and Miss Esther Garland of Hope; two brothers, Lee Garland of Hope, and the Rev. Loyd Garland of Springfield, Ga.

Tea probably was the first artificial connected human drink. It dates back 4700 years in China.

Bandboy Cakes on Display Thursday

Cakewalk Entries Thursday Night Shown at Hope Furniture Co.

Several dozen cakes, baked by friends and mothers of the Hope Boys band, will be put on display Thursday afternoon in a window of Hope Furniture company.

The cakes will be awarded to winners Thursday night in the second annual cakewalk to be staged downtown, starting at 8 o'clock.

All members of the band are asked to gather at First Baptist church at 4 p. m. Thursday. From there the band will be carried in a truck throughout the city.

The band has recently been increased to 63 members and money derived from the cakewalk will purchase new uniforms.

In a recent film fan's ballot, Charles Laughton headed the popularity list of British actors, gaining nearly twice as many votes as George Arliss, who ranked second.

Gray Quits Senate Race at Deadline

Griffin Smith for Supreme Court Seat—Tilman B. Parks Retires

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Thornberry A. Gray, of Batesville, announced his withdrawal from the United States senate race Wednesday and former State Auditor J. Oscar Humphrey, of DeQueen, filed his pledge as a candidate for state auditor a few hours before the deadline, which closes the ticket for the Democratic state primary.

In a formal statement Gray said Senator Robinson's defeat can be accomplished only by a united front. He declined to say whom he would support.

Smith for Court Seat
LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Developments Tuesday, on the eve of the closing of the state ticket at 6 p. m. Wednesday for the Democratic primary August 11, were:

State Comptroller Griffin Smith, who previously had qualified as a candidate for governor, announced that he had changed his plans and would be a candidate for chief justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Circuit Judge Jack Holt of Harrison said that he would be a candidate for attorney general.

Walter L. Pope, former attorney general, withdrew from the attorney general's race.

Representative Tilman B. Parks of the Seventh Congressional District revealed in Washington that he would not seek renomination.

Comptroller Smith's decision not to run for governor but to oppose Chief Justice C. E. Johnson created a novel situation.

In 1932, when Governor Futrell, then a chancellor, was making his first campaign, Judge Johnson, also a chancellor, was his campaign manager, and Mr. Smith was one of the assistant managers.

The developments Tuesday, following closely upon the announcement Monday by Senator Arthur J. Johnson of Star City that he would be a gubernatorial aspirant, were regarded as indicating that administration forces would not unite behind the comptroller and that part of them, at least, had turned to Senator Johnson.

From time to time, since the appointment of Judge Johnson to the office of chief justice by Governor Futrell in 1933, it has been apparent that he and Comptroller Smith were not always in agreement, and it had been reported for several days that Mr. Smith was considering opposing Judge Johnson. The latter was elected in July, 1933, to complete the unexpired term of the late Chief Justice J. C. Hart, to succeed whom he had been appointed shortly after the beginning of the Futrell administration.

Congressman Parks, in disclosing that he would retire from the seat in the national House which he has held since 1921, made public no plans for the future. His home is at Camden.

Wade Kitchens of Magnolia, who was declared by Ashley Circuit Court after trial of his contest suit, to have been the legal Democratic nominee for Congress in 1934, has announced that he will again be a candidate this year.

Though the court ruled in his favor, Mr. Kitchens was unsuccessful in efforts to have the governor call a special election for congressman in the district or to induce congress to declare the seat vacant.

C. M. Burke of the DeAnn community announced Wednesday that a community singing would be held at 2 p. m. Sunday, May 17, at DeAnn.

He said the public was invited and urged to bring song books.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Practically all babies sooner or later indulge in the instinctive habit of thumb-sucking. Like many other habits, thumb-sucking in moderation probably does no harm.

But dentists point to the fact that over-indulgence in this habit causes a typical deformity of the jaws, in which the upper front teeth are pushed forward and the lower front teeth are tipped backwards. They have found that, if the left thumb is sucked, the teeth are displaced toward the left; if the right thumb is sucked, the teeth are moved toward the right.

This serious possibility of malformation of the jaw should be a decided warning to parents to do something early about thumb-sucking. If the habit is broken before the child is 5 years old, the deformity may disappear within a year or two. If, however, the practice is continued, the deformity may become permanent.

An extensive study, a prominent dentist discovered that 70 of 170 children had developed such habits as sucking the thumbs, fingers, tongues, or lips. Thirty of the 70 sucked their thumbs.

With the exception of two children who began the habit during their second year of life, all who sucked their thumbs had started it during their nursing periods. Twenty-one of the 30 children were easily broken of the

Sally went down town on Saturday morning with five dollars—five dollars her father had given her for stockings and sundry, saying as he handed it to her, "Take part of this and buy Mother something nice."

She felt like Croesus, or Loretta Young. Sally said, as she climbed the bus. Never had she had so much money in her life. Money with almost no strings to it, either, except—oh yes, she must be sure to get "something" for Mother.

At any other time the ride and the spring-clothed passengers would have absorbed this fifteen-year-old's attention. But today the yellow and pink flannelette and the gay new hats could not compete with the staggering visions of her mind's eye.

Besides, it wasn't five dollars it was only three-fifty when you subtracted that dollar and a half for Mother. Wasn't that fair enough? Idly she wondered what Mother would like.

Well, Mother wouldn't really care. Besides, she would appreciate a dol-

A naked colored man with a cast-iron spear may be hard put to stop one of Italy's ultra-modernized soldiers, but little Haile Selassie himself was as intelligent, far-sighted, and altogether admirable a ruler as Mussolini is apt ever to encounter.

So says Robinson MacLean, effervescent Toronto newspaperman, in "John Hoy of Ethiopia" (Farrar and Rinehart, $2.50), a spirited account of Mr. MacLean's adventures as a war correspondent in Africa.

The "John Hoy" comes from an Ethiopian expression which seems to mean "His Majesty" or possibly "The Works." Haile Selassie, therefore, is "John Hoy," and he seems to have made a profound impression on this talented Canadian newsmonger.

For Ethiopia itself, and especially for the capital city, Addis Ababa, Mr. MacLean could not say so much. He found the country filthy, smelly, backward, and crawling with vicious diseases.

But John Hoy is all man; a ruler far ahead of his contemporaries, who strove to bring his country up to date, ruling through a coterie of pompous incompetents who forced him to do everything himself if it was to

The men and their women and their children had gone to work in the fields, for the director, a mandarin known as Sidney Franklin, had decreed a harvest that day. Paul Muni was at home, though, at his earthen house. His Chinese name is Wang Lung.

Two hours each morning are required by him to dress for the fields, even in his robe shoes and his loose blue garment, and with his queue knotted at the back of his head. There are men who help him to dress in this way, and who apply pigments to his face.

We shook hands in the Occidental manner. I said, "We hope that your harvest is good, and that the people of your honorable house are in health."

"Huh?" said Wang Lung, the son of Muni. "Oh, yes, the harvest is good, and we have no sickness. My poor but is yours, but in it there is not even a leaf of tea for your refreshment, nor even a highball. But I must go now and cut five sheaves of wheat for the cameras, because the director has said that the rains are near and that we must hurry with the grain."

So saying, he began to walk up the hill where men were waiting with the machines for making pictures. There were cameras also for making wind, and these had the sound of a thousand devils as they buffeted the standing grain with the fury of an approaching storm.

PETER GARDNER, newspaper reporter, helps her get a job writing society news. Linda is in love with DIX CARTER, but he goes abroad to study singing. When Peter asks Linda to marry him, she agrees, but postpones the wedding.

HONEY HARRISON, film star, comes to Newtown, making a "personal appearance" for a "scenario" written by Linda. Linda goes to Hollywood and by spreading lies that are really Peter's, acquires a reputation for being able to discover new stars. Soon she is a celebrity.

DIX CARTER comes to Hollywood to get into show as an actor. Linda tries to help him. To please DIX, she invites BASIL THORNE, director, to her home, though she dislikes and distrusts Thorne.

Peter Gardner writes a successful play and later comes to Hollywood. Linda sees Peter and quarrels with him. She promises DIX that as soon as he gets a job she will marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

SOMETIMES at night, with the din of carpenter's hammers still ringing in her ears, the incessant repetition of orchestral rehearsals, the piercing clatter of light from the brilliant studio lights still hurting her eyes, Linda lay in the cool fragrance of her bed and wished herself back in Newtown.

When a girl was engaged to be married back there, being engaged was a business all by itself.

Linda's engagement was an entirely different thing. She had days and nights that had to be devoted to her work. There were strangers without number and no intimates to share her all-important joy. When her wedding day came, it would have to be sandwiched in somewhere between her job and Dix's hours at the studio. When he got a job!

There again Thorne came into the picture. He had told Dix he would— or might possibly—give him a chance to play in the re-takes of his last picture. If only he would, Linda felt assured that Dix would have his great chance and then the way would be made easy for them to marry.

She must see Thorne again. She had been putting him off—pleading fatigue, over-work, anything she could think of. But now she must see him, hurry him into a decision.

On Thursday he asked her to have a cocktail with him the next afternoon. She accepted quickly and gratefully, and then had to break the engagement because she couldn't get away from Commonwealth City. She hated having to break it, and feared she would not hear from him again.

SHE need not have worried. Thorne also was in the picture industry. And he was persistent. He telephoned on Saturday, and asked her to dine with him at his home on Monday.

Linda had to think quickly this time. Remembering her last visit

Mussolini's Paper Repeats "Hands Off" Warning on Ethiopia

A widening chasm stretched Wednesday between the new Italian empire and the League of Nations.

Italy matched Mussolini's withdrawal of her Geneva delegation with a defiant "hands off" warning on Ethiopia, Premier Mussolini's official newspaper repeated.

Taft Beats Borah

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—(AP)—Forces of Senator William F. Borah of Idaho, bidding for Ohio's Republican presidential delegation, fell steadily behind early Wednesday in a ballot battle with a "favorite son" with a delegate.

An entire slate of eight delegate-at-large candidates, representing Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, appeared to be building up a commanding lead on the basis of returns from 1,403 of the state's 8,579 precincts.

The highest of seven Borah delegate-at-large candidates, Daniel E. Morgan of Cleveland, had polled 8,408 almost 50 per cent behind the lowest Taft candidate, Frank H. Ransbottom of Zanesville, who got 15,456.

Scattered returns from 12 of 14 congressional districts in which there were Borah-Taft delegate contests showed 23 "favorite son" candidates and one Borah supporter leading.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(AP)—In the presence of the man he helped seize and imprison for 23 days, Harry Campbell, lame molester of the Barker-Karpis gang, pleaded guilty Tuesday to conspiracy in the $200,000 Edward G. Bremer kidnapping and was sentenced to life in prison.

Sentence was imposed by Federal Judge M. M. Joyce, as Bremer, 39, a bank president, kidnapped January 17, 1934, listened to the proceedings.

Campbell, seized in Toledo six days ago by federal agents, pleaded guilty after five days of almost constant questioning by federal agents and confessed, District Attorney George Sullivan said, that he and Alvin Karpis played principal roles in the abduction, Karpis, captured at New Orleans 11 days ago, is in the county jail under indictment as a ringleader in both the Bremer and William Hamm Jr. abductions. Hamm, president of a brewing company, was kidnapped June 15, 1933, and paid $100,000 for his freedom.

Sullivan disclosed that Campbell received only between $5,000 and $7,000 as his share of the ransom. Campbell will be taken to Leavenworth penitentiary and later probably transferred to Alcatraz Island prison in San Francisco bay, where other members of the kidnap mob are serving time.

Admits New Bill Would Cut Taxes

Nearly Half of Big Corporations Would Pay Less—Morgenthau

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau told the senate finance committee Wednesday that 283 of the 600 corporations which made more than one million dollars in 1934 would have paid less taxes under the plan to base levies on undistributed profits.

"the best security in the world."

"This is not an inflationary bill," he roared, "let alone uncontrolled inflation."

He said the Farm Credit Administration had been unfair because it had used government money for lobbying and distributed an opposition analysis to the bill Tuesday to every member of congress. He said the analysis was "slush."

The farmer would pay more than 14 per cent for his credit.

The bill would benefit 15 per cent of the farmers and damage the rest.

It would ruin the Federal Land bank system.

It would cause other lending agencies to withdraw from the farm mortgage field.

Lenke claimed the bill was a non-partisan measure and that there never has been another with such great public support.

He said it would not permit anything that the Federal Reserve banks were not doing now, except that they "are doing it for the international bankers and a handful of individuals."

Democrats began sniping back, with Representative Fiesinger (Dem., O.) branding the bill "iniquitous" and saying its enactment would mean a dictatorship.

"If inflation comes," he said, "we would have a collapse more serious than the depression and then chaos followed by a changed form of society and government."

Calling the bill "unfair" and "unjust" Representative Cooley (Dem., N. C.) objected to what he said were attempts to "bullwhip and browbeat" members into voting for it. He said it was designed to "bail out" banks and insurance companies holding bad farm loans.

"If it is not inflation," he asked "why is it limited to $3,000,000,000 when the farm mortgages of the country amount to $9,000,000,000?"

The class rooms in the newly finished Educational building of the First Baptist church opened into one banquet hall was the setting on Tuesday evening for the annual Mothers' day party given by the Alatenn, Gleasons, Young Mothers and Young Business Women's classes. The decorations were outstanding in grace and beauty. Tall French floor baskets filled with Dorothy Perkins roses and blue delphinium gave a color combination that was very lovely, and they formed a line of beauty down the entire length of the room and across each end. The classes and their guests were seated in different sections giving a splendid view of the improvised stage arranged at one end of the hall. Mrs. Hugh Smith, teacher of the Young Business Women's class welcomed the guests, and announced the evening's entertainment, which was in the form of a District Centennial School, arranged by Mrs. Smith giving facts on the state of Arkansas, dwelling on points of local interest. Miss Avis Jones was the teacher and gave evidence of being a teacher of considerable tact and discipline, as some of her (they?) pupils proved rather obstreperous in their conduct. It was all very amusing as well as instructive, and deserves to be classed as a Centennial observance, as well as a compliment to the mothers.

Big Crowd Hears Lecture on Hell

Capacity Audiences at Fife Revival in First Christian Church

With just one delegation from the Holly Church, eight miles in the country—a delegation of sixty—one people—the Christian church revival led by Dr. Clyde Fife set a new record for a crowd Tuesday night. Mrs. Salisbury got up the delegation and received the Bible from Dr. Fife for the largest number of guests. One little boy, Robert White, had 24 people there. Another person brought nine.

Wednesday night the Ladies Aid of the church will sponsor the services. Thursday night the Service class will sponsor it as led by their teacher, Mrs. Porterfield. Friday is the grand farewell night to Dr. Fife.

The people in the revival Tuesday night were thrilled by the Baptist Men's quartet, which sang two numbers: "Give Me Thy Heart," and "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour." They will sing again in the revival Thursday night.

Dr. Fife preached a thrilling sermon on "Seven Detours to Hell." In the course of his sermon he said: "My text tonight says: 'Broad is the gate and broad is the way and many there be that go in there at, for straight is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life and few there be that find it. Jesus never promised that all would be saved. He said that only a few would be saved—rare souls with faith in Jesus to hang the lantern of hope in the darkness of the tomb and bring life and immortality to light through the gospel. 'God never prepared hell and destruction for you. He is not willing that any should perish but that all should come to repentance. Out on the mountains, coming here, I often saw danger signs: 'Steep hill,' 'Go into second gear' and 'Dangerous when wet.' If I had not attended at once, I would have gone through a barrier and dropped hundreds of feet before I would ever have hit even a rock or a tree. So, God has set up all these warnings for our protection but if we burst through them but-eyed, we are sure to land upside down in hell and destruction as that God made fire in volcanoes and water pours over Niagara."

"The first detour God has set up is the Bible. It still is true. It is still the Word of God. It still warns of sin. It still is the only book which holds the answer to the heart-aches and problems of this old sin-cursed world. It still holds the only answer for the lives of bad children. It still is the only book that holds all the wisdom God put into it and tells God's plan of salvation."

Here the evangelist paid a glowing tribute to the Bible.

"The next detour to hell is a mother's prayers. If you go on to destruction, brother, you go over the highest barrier of mother's prayers. This old town ever threw across the path of men who have set their faces for destruction, closed their eyes and deafened their ears. This revival is God's last warning thrown across the path of sinful men and women—God's last warning before he closes the door of salvation on your life and on a clear sky. Don't forget, bud, that God didn't close the door of that ark in the rain. He closed it on a clear sky and those men stayed in there seven long days before there was ever a cloud in a sky."

"The next detour is a Sunday school teacher. I had two in my boyhood days that I can never forget. Mrs. Hissey and Mrs. Ella Hamma. They came through sunshine and rain. I have seen Mrs. Hamma come in an old open buggy with her eyes frozen shut and we would get her out of the buggy and into the church where she would throw out and then get so she could teach and talk. I asked a young preacher for whom I held three meetings, why we always had such big success, he said: 'Dr. Fife have baptized 750 people in your three meetings. Here is the secret: I have 52 teachers in my Sunday school. There isn't a one in the outfit that drinks any liquor, plays any cards or runs to any dances or road houses. When they stand up before these classes, they have power. They are clean and above criticism and these young people KNOW THAT.'"

"But if he had had a bunch of gin-fizzlin, dope-using old brothers and sisters who got in homes at daylight before Sunday school on Sunday (they would have taught a lesson like this: Now what is our lesson this morning? And what did Moses say? And what did the calf say? Now what is there of spiritual truth in this lesson this morning? No wonder the church wanders in the wilderness with such a bunch of hypocrites to show the way. They are forever the blind leading the blind and they both fall into the ditch together."

"Another detour is a revival of religion. Prejudice against a revival is born of ignorance and of the devil." Just here Dr. Fife asked all who joined the churches in a revival to stand, it looked like almost the entire audience which packed the church got up en masse. "Now don't ever tell me that revivals are a failure and that people who join in revivals don't stick. The devil put such stuff into men's hearts and never was a blacker lie ever put into the hearts of professing Christians. I know why men don't like revivals. It is for the same reason that men in sin seek the dark. Their deeds are evil. The good people of any city welcome me with prayers and thanks to God. Those in the rot and blight of sin despise to see me ever come to the town."

"Another powerful detourment, to hell is a Christian wife. People are not mated right. A man who is an infidel and a drunkard and abusive to his sweet little wife who is a fine Christian woman, deprived of all church life should have married some old hag who would lay a beer bottle or a soup bowl up to the side of his head every morning before breakfast as a regular diet. A woman who marries a Christian boy and keeps him from church to haul her all over America from one beer joint to another all day every Sunday should have married one of her kind who

"When a man marries, he is made or damned on his wedding day. A good woman is God's richest blessing. The other kind is the scum of the lowlands of life. But no Christian woman or earth can rear a family that is any account on earth without the backing of a Christian husband and father."

"There is another detour to hell. Now, I can sort of understand how a man would pass by one of my sermons or songs or perhaps by a prayer of some old saint. But Oh, God, how a man can pass by the dying or dead Son of God, hanging dead with open mouth and sagging eyes and pierced hands and feet on the old rugged cross and go unmoved by that I think that such a man must be lower than a beast. Oh, in the cross of Christ I glory, towering over the wrecks of time. All the light of sacred story gathers round it's head sublime."

All Masons, Eastern Stars and other Lodge people as well as the general public are invited tonight to hear Dr. Fife on "The World's Greatest Love Story" or "A Gorgeous Sweetheart in a Wheelchair." The campaign closes Friday night.

"13 Hours by Air" New Saenger Film

Fred MacMurray, Joan Bennett, Zasu Pitts Stars of Thriller

Romance, intrigue and excitement aloft are the themes of "Thirteen Hours by Air," the new Paramount drama which opens Thursday at the Saenger Theater.

Fred MacMurray and Joan Bennett play the leading roles in MacMurray with Zasu Pitts, John Howard, Bonnie Bartlett, Grace Bradley, Alan Baxter, Brian Donlevy, Ruth Donnelly and Fred Keating heading the supporting cast. It's based on a magazine serial by Bogart Rogers.

Filmed in the sky and at regular transcontinental airports through the co-operation of United Air Lines, "Thirteen Hours by Air" is authentic in every detail. It's the story of a New York-San Francisco flight in a transport plane piloted by MacMurray and Howard. Among the passengers are pretty Miss Bennett, who says she is a prominent socialite, but who MacMurray suspects is involved in a big jewel robbery; a nine-year-old heir to millions and his distracted governess, played respectively by Bonnie Bartlett and Zasu Pitts; and three suspicious-looking male passengers.

As the plane roars across the continent, there is an attempted kill, an attempt to crash the ship, and a number of other dramatic incidents. How the plot is finally untangled brings the film to a dramatic climax.

Meeting of Wonder State Club Called at City Hall Friday

Miss Nellie Porter, teacher of the sixth grade, said Wednesday that she would like to meet all members of the Wonder State club interested in writing an essay on the Arkansas Centennial.

She asked that those interested to meet with her at Hope city hall auditorium at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. Miss Porter said that members of the club are students promoted this year to the seventh grade.

She said that a Little Rock firm was offering worthwhile cash prizes for essays.

CLUB NOTES

The Old Liberty Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. M. C. Calhoun Friday May 8. The house was called to order by the president, Mrs. Guy Hicks. The club sang a beautiful song, "Till Meet My Mother Up There."

Mrs. Frank Shearer gave an interesting devotional from the book of Ruth, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The roll was called and eight members were reported. The minutes were read and approved.

Miss Alford had some new business for the club to do. Then Miss Marshall of Little Rock gave an interesting talk on dressmaking and the club adjourned to meet next month at Mrs. Clarence Gilbert's.

France and U.S.A. Swap Tariff Cuts

It's First Commercial Contract Between Them in 100 Years

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — A trade treaty, involving tariff cuts by the United States and a partial lifting by France of restrictions against American goods, was revealed Tuesday through publication of the newly-negotiated Franco-American reciprocal trade pact.

It was the first commercial contractual relationship between the two countries in more than a century.

France agreed to open its markets to increased quantities of American fresh apples and pears, leaf tobacco, some types of automobiles and parts, canned salmon, logs and lumber, silk hosiery, agricultural machinery and tractors, radios and refrigerating apparatus.

France also agreed to 19 reductions in duties and to continue existing rules on a number of other American articles. The partial liberalizing of that country's present quota export exclusion system was regarded as by far the most important to the United States.

The United States agreed to lower tariffs up to 50 per cent on certain types of wines, brandy, lace and other so-called "luxury" articles, embracing in all 77 items.

Because of the political situation in France, significance was attached to an article providing for modification or termination on 30 days' notice should the relative value of the currencies of the two countries change so widely that the industries or commerce of either would be prejudiced.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

YOUNG MAN, INTERRUPTING A COURT SESSION IS A SERIOUS THING! WHAT IS THE MEANING OF THIS INTRUSION?

YOUR HONOR, I THINK I HAVE EVIDENCE THAT WILL CLEAR MY FRIEND!

PROCEED WITH THE TEST—MONEY!!

BENEATH THE FLOOR OF THE DRUG STORE WE FOUND COINS...A DOZEN FIFTY-CENT PIECES! ONE OF THEM, I AM SURE, WAS THE COIN THAT NUTTY LEFT AS PAYMENT FOR THAT MEDICINE!

SYLVESTER, IS THERE ANY WAY YOU HAVE OF IDENTIFYING THE COIN YOU LEFT ON THE COUNTER?

I THINK I CAN DESCRIBE IT, YOUR HONOR!

THIS IS PREPOSTEROUS. ANYONE KNOWS THAT MR. TWIDGE, YOU ARE ROUND AND HAS A MILLED EDGE!

SIT DOWN!
